13 Pikes dismissed from fraternity

opposed to previous semesters when lines were stretched to the cold outdoors.

Members fall below chapter's expectations

By AMY CARR
Staff writer

A number of members of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity received an unwanted Christmas gift this year.

Letters of dismissal arrived at the homes of 13 members on Christmas Eve. The dismissals followed a series of interviews conducted by the national chapter which determined the members were not living up to Pi Kappa Alpha standards.

Dan Corah, director of services for the national chapter, said the interviews were conducted because of a number of negative comments he had received from sources outside of the fraternity.

He said the process is "pretty rare... very rare."

Corah said the interviews, which consisted of a few short questions, concluded the members were not living up to standards listed in the fraternity's preamble.

Included among these standards are the promotion of brotherly love, advancement of education, social intercourse and a formation of a closer bond between its members.

One of the dismissed members, junior Michael Lindgren, said the letter stated he had not lived up to an oath taken at the time of initiation. However, he added, "Nobody knows what it (the oath) is because they get you drunk."

"How can two guys from nationals come down and within 10 minutes, after four years (in the fraternity) boot you out?"

In addition, Lindgren and his roommate, John Andree, who was also dismissed both from the fraternity and the university for academic reasons, said they believe the interviews invaded their privacy.

The interviews were tape recorded by the national chapter without the permission of some of the members.

Corah said the tape recorder was in plain sight and that some of the (See PIKES, Page 7)

Financial problems continue in '88

By JEFF MADSEN
Staff writer

After experiencing a year of financial uncertainty and crisis in 1987, it looks like higher education may be headed for "more of the same" in 1988.

Pam Meyer, a spokesperson for the Board of Governors, Eastern's governing body, said Tuesday, "Unless additional revenues are found, the financial situation we experience in 1988 could be evident and it would probably be worse than it was in 1987."

In the first week of January, the Illinois Board of Higher Education approved a 13.9 percent increase to Eastern's operating budget, the largest increase for any of the BOG schools.

Although the IBHE approved the budget increase, it still has to pass through the General Assembly and get Gov. James R. Thompson's approval when the General Assembly reconvenes Friday.

"When Gov. Thompson gives his budget message, he'll say how much he's willing to put forward for higher education," Meyer said, adding: "But we're expecting it to be much lower than what the Board of Higher Education approved. He (Thompson) said he was going to stay with the current financial constraints we're experiencing."

Illinois ranks 42nd among the 50 states in per capita education despite being ranked ninth in per capita income.

Last year, higher education in Illinois suffered a $59.5 million reduction in general revenue support.

Ross Hodel, an IBHE deputy director, said that statewide, IBHE is requesting $200 million from the General Assembly and a tax increase is the only way the state could support that recommendation.

"What we have recommended requires a tax increase. There is no other way the state could afford it,"

Hodel said, noting $400 million was requested for elementary and secondary education.

Hodel said he wasn't sure how the General Assembly would react to a tax increase, but he hopes the assembly supports one.

"I'm sure we'll get a wide variety of reactions. Some will be for it, some will be against it and others won't be too sure. But without the tax increase, our financial situation is bound to get worse," Hodel said.

Meyer said the BOG was also supportive of a tax increase.

"The BOG system has suffered greatly under the current financial situation and no one suffers more than the students. A tax increase seems to be necessary," Meyer said.

"The IBHE understands the need for the BOG schools and we have further indications that the general public does too," Meyer said.

Reaction mixed over central registration

By RANA WOODSON
Staff writer

For the most part, central registration has become an alternative to pre-enrollment.

"Students usually get what they need to graduate, but not usually at the time they want," Registration Director Mike Taylor said.

He said if students weren't getting the classes that they needed, then there would be a problem.

Junior Gina Loughmiller said central registration has its advantages. "Central registration is an advantage because seats are left open for central registration students."

Junior Michelle Swane said, "Central registration was a breeze. The advantage of central registration is you get the time you want for your classes." However, there are some students who feel central registration is a hassle.

—Pam Kipnis Student

Transfer student Pam Kipnis said, "You don't get the classes that you want because they're closed from pre-registration. It needs to be improved."

Taylor said most students go through central registration for one of three reasons.

"Either the student has no money to pay for pre-registration; or the student was not invited to pre-enroll, or the student is not sure if they're coming," she said.

Taylor admits that central registration is more of a hassle than pre-enrollment, but not so bad that the students won't get what they need.

The deadline for all class additions is Friday, Taylor said.

Add/drops start

The spring semester class add/drop saga commences Wednesday in the Old Ballroom of the University Union.

Students may add or drop classes according to the following schedule based on the last digit of a student's social security number:

Clark County leads in waste race

SPRINGFIELD—Clark County became the leading candidate for Illinois' low-level nuclear waste disposal facility Tuesday despite reservations by the mayors of its two largest towns.

Terry Lash, director of the Illinois Department of Nuclear Safety, said he designated the border county near Terre Haute, Ind., as the top choice after meeting with its officials Monday.

"They have expressed a very positive interest in this, more positive than any other county, and frankly there's less opposition to it than in any other county," Lash said at a news conference.

"I want to stress they have not said that they will take it. They have said they are willing to cooperate with us for further study."

Asked if there was opposition in the county, Lash said. "This facility is never going to be located in a county where there isn't some opposition."

Investors' bond rush no surprise

SPRINGFIELD—The rush by investors to buy Illinois' college savings bonds on the first day they were offered was no surprise, one of the creators of the program said Tuesday.

"I knew there was going to be a strong demand when I began receiving inquiries the day Gov. (James R.) Thompson signed the bill," said Sen. Aldo DeAngelis, R-Olympic fields, a chief sponsor of legislation authorizing the bonds, which were first offered Monday.

Brokers and investment bankers have predicted that orders for the bonds, which are designed to help parents save for their children's education, will exceed the supply.

"While I am very pleased it has been so successful, I have some concern for those who could not secure bonds," DeAngelis said.

Lawmakers might consider putting a cap on the number of bonds an individual can buy, he said.

"I was surprised at the tremendous number of inquiries from grandparents," DeAngelis said. "They say they have been searching and searching for the perfect gift and then this comes along and they want to grab it."

Burris angry over Thompson veto

SPRINGFIELD—Comptroller Roland W. Burris on Tuesday accused Gov. James Thompson of a "blatantly political" veto of a bill that would have put Burris on a panel that oversees state pension-fund investments.

Burris, a Democrat who has been mentioned as a possible gubernatorial candidate in 1990, said the Republican governor was retaliating for Burris' opposition to the administration's tax-increase statement.

Thompson last week vetoed part of an omnibus pension bill that would have included the comptroller on the Board of Investments. Approved unanimously by the General Assembly, the measure also revised benefits for some state, county and municipal officials and employees.

Accident rate worst in 13 years for major U.S. airlines in 1987

WASHINGTON (AP)—Major U.S. airlines in 1987 had the highest number of accidents in 13 years and the most deaths in five years while commuter carriers had their worst safety record of this decade, the National Transportation Safety Board reported Tuesday.

The board said the large airlines had 31 accidents last year, including four crashes involving fatalities, accounting for 231 deaths. The commuter airlines, which fly smaller planes, had 42 accidents. The 231 fatalities were topped during the past decade only by 1979, when 351 people died, and 1982 when 233 were killed, according to the board.

Airline industry officials suggested, however, that the total accident and fatality figures are misleading.

They say the rate of accidents involving fatalities, 0.043 per 100,000 departures, was lower in 1987 than in most years although significantly higher than the rate in 1986 when there was only one fatality involving major U.S. air carriers.

"There were only six other years since the beginning of safety regulations in 1926 that had a lower (fatal accident) rate," said William F. Bolger, president of the Air Transport Association which represents the major air carriers.

Bolger said the airlines carried more than 450 million passengers on nearly 7 million flights during 1987 and that 11 of the 31 accidents involved some sort of injury. The NTSB counts an accident whenever there is a significant injury or aircraft damage. Heavy turbulence in which there is significant injury also is classified as an accident.

Arab shot, killed by Israeli troops; U.N. aide thwarted by protestors

GAZA CITY, Occupied Gaza Strip (AP)—Israeli troops shot and killed a Moslem fundamentalist in a violent demonstration Tuesday.

Military spokesmen said the army imposed curfews on five of the eight Gaza Palestinian refugee camps.

In the Israeli parliament, Foreign Minister Shimon Peres appealed for an effort to end the violence by political means. Hawkish members accused him of caving in to Arab demands.

At least 32 Arabs have been killed since violent protest began Dec. 8 in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, which Israel captured from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 Middle East War. About 1.5 million Palestinians live in the territories.

The military command said soldiers opened fire when their lives were threatened by a crowd of knife-wielding Arabs in Rafah, at the southern end of the Gaza Strip. One Arab died and three were wounded, while a soldier was treated for a minor stab wound, a communique said.

The army identified the dead man as Muhammed Yusuf El Yazouri, a member of the Moslem fundamentalist Islamic Jihad group, who was freed from prison last year after serving three years on unspecified charges.

In the Jabaliva refugee camp, troops fired on rioters brandishing nail-studded sticks, slightly injuring two people, the military said. Doctors in Jabliva said they treated two people for gunshot wounds.

Federal Courts rendered impotent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal courts are powerless to curb the growing phenomenon of "parental kidnapping" in child custody disputes, the Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.

The 8-0 decision in a case from California and Louisiana said a 1980 law, the Federal Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act, does not authorize federal courts to resolve conflicting custody rulings by courts in different states.

The attorneys general of four states—California, Hawaii, Nevada and Texas—had warned the high court that such a ruling could spark even more kidnapping.

"The longer custody remains unresolved, the greater . . . the parent's frustration increases, and self-help becomes an increasingly attractive alternative," the attorneys general said.

But writing for the court Tuesday, Justice Thurgood Marshall said Congress in 1980 meant only to encourage more cooperation between state courts and did not envision federal court intervention.

Investigation started due to worker's claim

From staff and wire reports

The U.S. Labor Department will investigate a complaint of discrimination in the employment of minorities at Eastern, an agency official said Tuesday.

Ted Hood, area director of the department's office of federal contract compliance in Indianapolis, said someone who worked at Eastern filed the complaint.

He declined to identify the person, but said, "The allegations were discrimination as it relates to employment practices for minorities."

Hood said Eastern would be notified and given 60 days to conduct its own inquiry. Then, the Labor Department would conduct "an on-site investigation," he said.

Art Tate, university relations assistant director, said he acknowledges the existence of an alleged complaint through reports by the local media, but said he could not comment about it because "no official notification has come."

However, we are proud of our affirmative action program and will cooperate fully with any authorized investigation," Tate added.

Discrimination complaints came to light last week after Gregory Beard, a former civil service employee and Charleston resident, said he believed that Eastern used blacks to meet "a certain quota of minorities."

Six of the 726 non-academic civil service employees on the Eastern payroll last fall were black, Tate said. Three, including Beard, were laid off in November.

The three that were laid off were part of a special employment program established by the university to provide added employment opportunities for minorities, Tate said.

"If we hadn't offered the special program, they wouldn't have been employed," Tate said. "The program was just to try to get them in the (civil service) system."

But Beard said, "I feel like they just hired us to boost their numbers and then let us go."

However, Drayton Justus, director of human resources at Eastern, said the three were laid off from a maintenance-laborer crew because their jobs were seasonal and there was less work to do.

The three were told their jobs would be provisional and they were released because "you can't cut grass in the winter," Justus said last week.

However, Beard said crew members not only cut grass, but did everything from construction work to moving furniture.

Along with Beard, Anthony Madison, who said he was fired last summer, said he was harassed with racial slurs from co-workers during his employment.

"I was employed Oct. 13, 1986. I filed a complaint because I should have been employed Sept. 25 of that same year," said Madison, a junior speech communication major.

He said Verna Armstrong, vice president for administration and finance, paid him $1,042 to sign a statement voiding his charges of discrimination against the university.

"I did it, and they (co-workers) started harrassing me, giving me death threats, calling me 'nigger' on the job," he said.

Later in the summer, Madison said he was fired.

He worked in a physical plant moving van. Madison said one day when he went to work, there was a lynched Buckwheat doll in the van.

He also said he has received hate mail and death threats as recently as Tuesday.

Beard also contended that during the time the blacks worked on the crew, they were subjected to racial harassment.

Eastern President Stanley Rives could not be reached for comment.

No burglaries in city

Christmas break in the past has been a prime time for burglaries to students' apartments and houses, but this year was different.

Charleston Police Chief Maurice Johnson said there were no major burglaries reported over the Christmas break.

"A lot of times there is an increase in burglaries (over the break)," Johnson said. "I don't know why this year was different. It is hard to guess about something like that."

While the risk of burglary was greater, Johnson said extra patrol was not needed or used.

Johnson added that prior to students leaving for the break, city police advised the students to take valuables home and have someone watch the house or apartment.

Textbook lines long but smooth

The textbook rental lines are "going smoothly" said Richard Sandefer, director of Textbook Rental Services on Tuesday.

The hours at the Textbook Library this week will be as follows: Wednesday, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Thursday, from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Sandefer said.

The library will remain open through the noon lunch hour, he added.

Lines for books swelled around the middle of the day, but tapered off late Tuesday.

"I figured late in the afternoon the lines would be shorter," junior Mark Poremba said. "It wasn't really that bad."

"I predict tomorrow will be worse," he added. "Early or late is the best time to come."

While waiting outside in cold temperatures may be the biggest concern for students, the longest waits could be inside.

"The lines inside for checkout are the longest," he added.

Sandefer said he could foresee longer lines Wednesday, but not any difficulties.

"It will be busy but I do not anticipate any problems," he said.

Greeks reluctant on 'Greek Court'

By AMBER GRIMES
Staff writer

The initial reaction from the Greek system to the proposed "Greek Court" has been one of reluctance.

Lisa Hasler, Alpha Gamma Delta president, said that "at this point they are not interested in moving." She added that Alpha Gamma Delta is currently making payments to own their present house.

"Alpha Gamma Delta just remodeled their house four years ago. Alpha Gamma Delta is interested in finding out more about the details," Hasler added. "If (the idea) catches on later down the road, then moving would be a possibility."

However, Delta Sigma Pi President Kevin Richards said he thought the Greek Court would be "good for the Greek system."

Richards added, though, that "at this time we (Delta Sigma Pi) don't know (if they would be moving into the Court).

Alpha Sigma Alpha Vice President Jennifer Moscinski is against the idea.

"I don't think it's a good idea. The university would own everything. (The idea) is not individual. If the houses could hire their own architects, then everything would not be the same, which is the point of the greek system," she said.

The sorority has not made a definite decision on moving yet. "We are still looking at the different options," Moscinski said.

"The Alpha Sigma Tau house hasn't formed an opinion, we're still waiting for the facts," said Vicky Matyas, Alpha Sigma Tau president.

Eastern student killed in car wreck

A two-car automobile accident claimed the life of an Eastern student and his girlfriend near Madison, Wis. over Christmas break.

Brian Pruett, 20, and his girlfriend Barbara Wuellner, 21, were pronounced dead by Dane County Coroner Bud Chamberlain shortly before 11 p.m., Dec. 29, on Highway 51 in Springfield, Wis. The couple was returning from a ski trip.

According to the Dane County's Coroners office, Pruett was passing in the middle lane of the three lane highway when his car, a Nissan Sentra, struck an icy patch. The car slid backwards into the path of an oncoming car.

Coroner Chamberlain listed the cause of death as being due to severe head injuries and a fractured cervical spine.

Pruett, a 1985 graduate of Decatur Eisenhower High School, was a technology major enrolled in his junior year at Eastern.

College savings a success, but need revisions

If the success of the first phase of Illinois' College Savings Act is any indication, the people of this state put a great deal of value on higher education.

In slightly more than a month since the zero based coupons went on sale, the first $90 million worth have been promptly snatched up, said Mary Barber, Gov. James R. Thompson's assistant for education. She said sales ended Tuesday and official totals won't be available until later but said, "It seems demand was higher than the supply."

Gov. James Thompson last month signed the bill which authorizes the sale of these bonds worth $5,000 when mature. Illinois is the first state in the union to put into operation a state sponsored college savings. The bonds costing $1,000 mature in 20 years, also maturing in five years are bonds costing $3,500. There is no limit to the number of bonds an individual may buy. And they are not factored into awarding Guaranteed Student Loans.

This program has some glitches which make the zero-based coupons a tax-free money maker, rather than a serious investment in education.

The coupons offer incentives for those who use these proceeds for higher learning. However, there are no penalties for spending interest on something other than its desired use. Perhaps the coupons should be redeemed at colleges and universities when students register for classes. Through a process much like collecting Pell grants or student loans the state could help insure that the earnings are spent on someone's higher learning.

The bonds' interest also remains tax free, regardless of how the money is spent. A tax or penalty for using the interest for something other than higher learning would increase the incentive to use that money for a student's learning.

The money the state borrows is used in a variety of capital expenses. It money should be spent in colleges and universities, thus giving state colleges the influx of funds they desperately need and making them more prestigious.

State officials are unsure if the other $210 million of this year's College Savings Bonds will go on sale. Hopefully the state will make a few revisions and put that money to work for Illinois students and universities.

OK, what did you really do over break?

Now that break is over, I'd like to take this opportunity to welcome you all back for yet another four months of reading, writing and pretending that you're actually interested in the only senior seminar left open, "Plants and You: Finally, a Battle You Can Win."

Coming back to school, for some unknown reason, although experts have attributed it to a drug-induced frenzy, always conjures up memories of returning to grade school to find your desk moved next to some dweeb who never understood the concept of eating paste, but was known to toss back a few bottles of Elmer's Glue during art class.

But the best part of coming back to school was writing reports about what you did during the holiday season.

Although no one ever wrote exactly what he did. I mean, if I actually did what I said I did I would have been given (simultaneously) the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Pulitzer Prize. I would of course accept the latter but refuse the former citing political reasons.

OK, so I never really did liquidate all of my worldly possessions to have enough cash to distribute canned pasta to the homeless. I did what everybody else did.

I watched television ALL DAY LONG.

Of course when your day doesn't start until Days of Our Lives it's really not that long.

But being home, planted firmly in front of the Magnavox, not even moving for a commercial break, opened my eyes to several wonderful pieces of television excellence.

Take, for example, "Win, Lose or Draw."

This show is sometimes hosted by Vicki Lawrence and sometimes hosted by Bert Convy (both of whom are tickled to now have a purpose for getting up in the morning).

If you haven't seen the game, it's kind of like charades on big tablets of paper with markers the size of intermediate-range missiles and celebrities that haven't worked in three-dog years.

Actually, though, the show is pretty entertaining. But, for some reason, women cannot play it. Oh, they try all right, but are completely inept.

On a recent show, the female celebrity was drawing for her teammates. She sketches a perfect rendition of Joan Rivers, complete with bottle blond coloring.

Meanwhile, the female teammates are yelling guesses at the celebrity who is frantically drawing.

"What is that? Oh, I know what it is! It's a black velvet painting of Elvis that cries!" screams the woman.

Alas, she is close, but the men, who have been watching John Madden play a lower level of this game for all of their adolescent life, guess immediately that it is Rivers and go on to win several thousand dollars which we can only guess is coming directly out of Bert Convy's hairstyling budget.

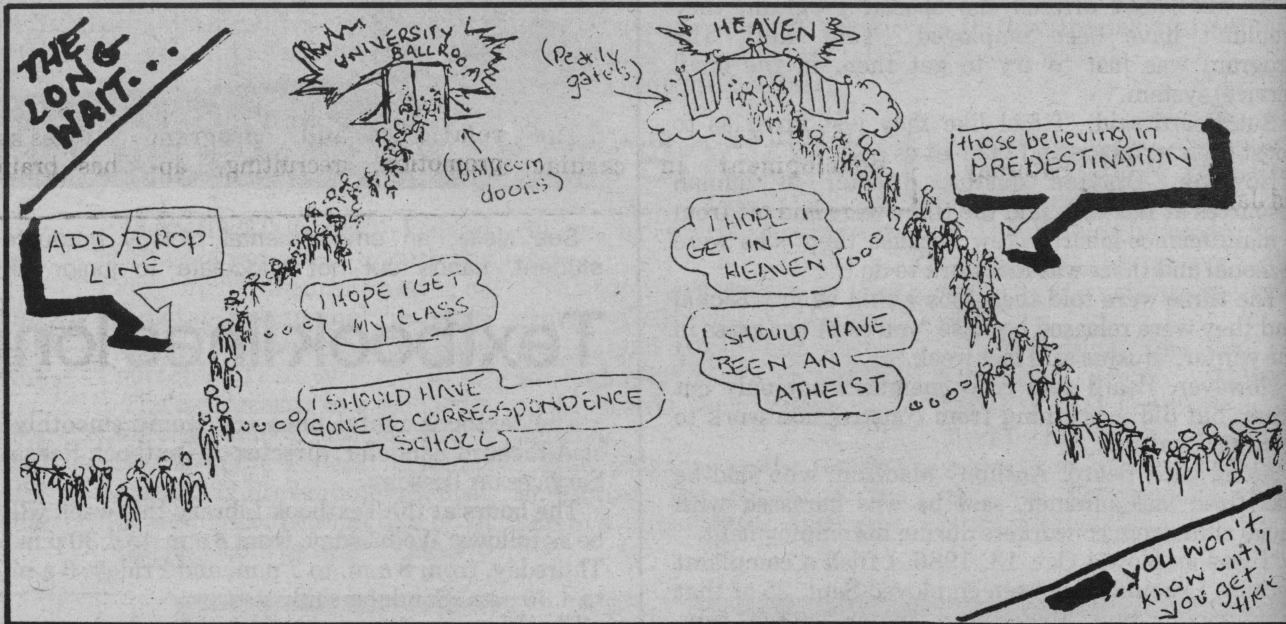

If nothing else, this show was a good warm-up for the mind-blowing show Jeopardy!, where just to get on the show you or one of your immediate family members has to claim a public library as a permanent residence.

I actually like Jeopardy!, too. But I would like it better if I wasn't convinced that Alex Trebec is dumber than a box of rocks. Although I'm not sure if this is accurate because I'm still awaiting the rocks' ACT score.

But, if nothing else, Alex looks smart as he reads the answer from the cue card and says, "Oh, too bad," (AS IF HE KNEW THE ANSWER HIMSELF) to the egghead that confused New Guinea with guinea pigs. "Bear in mind that the category is lice-infested children's pets," Alex reminds the contestant.

"Damn," the camera catches the contestant saying. And Alex winks at the camera with that knowing air, "Select again."

Your turn

BSU fashion show for unity, charity

Editor:

On Feb. 18, the Black Student Union with cooperation from student government is sponsoring "Moving on Together, in Fashion."

The goal behind providing the fashion show is two-fold. First, we would like to promote unity and togetherness among campus organizations by inviting all to participate in the production. A multi-sponsored event such as this is rare to Eastern's campus, yet could bring closeness among organizations. We ask any organization or person to help with the planning, publicity, backstage or as a model.

Our second goal is to donate all proceeds to the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program in Coles County. The program is designed to provide a role model for children from single parent families.

With the involvement of the campus and community, we are assured success. If you have any questions or comments, please contact us at 581-5522.

Students put on hold for call waiting

Editor:

We were very shocked to hear that we could not receive call waiting in the dorm rooms. We have been having difficulties with phone calls. So we resorted to the letter we received in August of 1987 saying, "a new telephone system was installed for EIU early this summer. The new system features touch tone service, individual long distance billing and the availability of new features like call waiting." When we called Illinois Consolidated (Telephone Company) to request it they said the dorm rooms could not have it. They said sometime in the near future we would receive it. If we are not allowed to have it until the near future, then why send thousands of students a letter saying we can have it, when we can't?

Letter policy

The Daily Eastern News welcomes letters to the editor from any reader addressing issues relating to the campus community.

The name and telephone number of a least on author must be submitted with each letter to the editor. Letters must be 250 words or less.

Only the first three names from letters containing more than three authors will be published unless further specified.

Letters submitted without a name (or a pseudonym) or without a telephone number or other means of verifying authorships will not be published.

Debates will be aired on WEIU-TV

By RUSSELL STARE
Government editor

With the 1988 November presidential elections quickly approaching, WEIU and the Student Senate are doing their part in bringing the candidates to the voting public.

Student Body President Deb Camren said she has begun discussing with Station Manager Ken Beno about televising a day of debates on Feb. 27.

Beno said the debates will be recorded by WEIU on Feb. 18 and 19 via satellite and be rebroadcast in their entirety Feb. 27.

"It'll probably at least go for four (hours)," Beno said of the expected five-hour broadcast to run from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on cable channel 29 and UHF channel 51.

There is a good chance to publicize the debates, being hosted by PBS correspondent Bill Moyers, because of the timespan before the broadcast, Beno said. "We found this (the debates) out in mid-December."

Beno added, having time for publicity is not possible for two other debates being presented on WEIU in January.

Two live debates, featuring all candidates in the presidential race, will be carried by WEIU Saturday and Jan. 24.

HPER looks to redefine college's direction

By DENISE STRZALKA
Staff writer

The College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation doesn't have any major problems, but the dean wants to pick a direction to follow.

"We have to redefine the direction we want to go in as a college..We want the program to expand and develop," said Carol Pyles, who became dean of HPER Aug. 1.

"The position was not left in shambles, nor was the work layed out for me," said Pyles, who is also a professor of Health Studies.

Dean Pyles started her position at Eastern on Aug. 1, 1987, after leaving Central State University, Oklahoma, where she was the Dean of Special Arts and Sciences. There she was in charge of such departments as nursing, industrial education, ROTC, and home economics.

She took the position at Eastern because, having a wide disciplinary background, she was "pleased in particular for the opportunities in disciplinary programs offered by Eastern."

Currently, Pyles is in charge of three academic departments: health studies, physical education and recreation, and leisure studies. She also oversees the adult fitness program, which serves Eastern and the community, and the development in cardiac rehabilitation, which serves the community.

In addition, Pyles is in charge of athletic training, driver education, and recreational and intramural sports.

Since taking her position in August, Pyles has been working on revising the mission and purpose of the college. And departmental plans have been worked out and set for three years.

Pyles' objectives are: public relations and program promotion, recruiting, appropriate research for faculty, placement for graduates, and setting up an advisory committee program. The key here is, she said, "to keep a link between academics and the community."

According to Pyles, these objectives were set up by the department chairs who received feedback from their departments. A departmental committee has already been set up to accomplish these objectives.

Pyles said each department has brainstormed a list of activities to achieve these goals, and several were selected during the retreat for chairs on Jan. 6 and are currently being worked on by the departmental committee.

Pyles is orginally from Aliquippa, Penn., which is just outside Pittsburgh. She is also a registered nurse, national certified counselor, and a licensed professional counselor. She received her Ph.D. in higher education and health administration from West Virginia University.

McAfee renovation added to IBHE priority list

Coleman Hall expansion nails down third spot

By JEFF BRITT
Administration editor

A $2 million request for a renovation of McAfee gymnasium is 33rd on the Illinois Board of Higher Education's priority list, said an IBHE official.

"It's totally dependant on the number of projects funded this year," said Ross Hodel, deputy director at the IBHE.

"It depends on how far the state's money goes," said Dave Dean, acting director of planning and budget analysis at Eastern. "At this point in time, it's just a recommendation."

The Coleman Hall expansion of the Lumpkin College of Business is 3rd on the priority list, Hodel said.

If the Coleman annexation is funded, McAfee becomes Eastern's top project on the priority list. "If the Coleman Hall project is funded this year, it (McAfee) could move way up," Hodel said.

Coleman is a $6 million project, and McAfee is a $2.02 million project.

"There are some big projects ahead of McAfee," Hodel said.

First on the list is an emergency roof replacement at State Community College in East St. Louis. Second is a project at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

DOUG SUMMERS / Staff photographer

The 13,000-square-foot roof of the center section of from the Illinois Board of Higher Education to replace McAfee Gymnasium needs to be replaced, according to mechanical and electrical systems and other parts of the Eastern officials. The university has requested $2.02 million building, which is 53 years old.

"We certainly don't know what the possibilities for funding on that project are," Dean said.

McAfee is a 53-year-old building that needs repairs internally, such as in mechanical, electrical and plumbing systems.

"It's not a face lift on the outside. It's the internal system that no one sees (that needs repairing)," Dean said.

He said the replacements of internal workings of the building take up the bulk of the $2 million request, and the roof over the center section of the building needs replacing.

"We've recognized the need to remodel and rehabilitate McAfee since the late 70s, early 80s," Dean said.

The project, which includes asbestos removal, is to be contracted through the Capital Development Board.

Computerized trading programs make stocks decline

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices fell moderately on Tuesday, in a broad decline that analysts said stemmed more from computerized trading programs than from a widespread selling rush by investors.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off more than 50 points at one time, closed down 16.58 at 1,928.55.

Broader market indicators also declined, but finished off their lows. Decliners outnumbered gainers on the New York Stock Exchange by nearly 2 to 1, with 538 up, 1,001 down and 430 unchanged.

Big Board volume totaled

165.73 million shares, against 158.98 million in the previous session.

Stocks were down sharply most of the session, following early selling by computerized trading programs that set the tone for much of the day. However, analysts said the broad selloff mainly reflected a lack of buying interest and relatively light trading volume, which accentuated the impact of the selling.

New officers freshen RHA

By RUSSELL STARE
Government editor

As the spring semester starts out fresh, the Residence Hall Association is also beginning fresh with three new executives.

"It will be fresh with three new officers," Lynette Woods, RHA national communications program chair, said. "We are starting a lot of new programs."

President Jim Tremmel, newly elected RHA officer, said, "It's going to be challenging. My big goal is to try to get everyone involved."

Tremmel added, "I have no qualms with how everything was handled last semester. I just want to improve on it."

Woods said the semester will start differently than last semester because of the new officers: Last semester, RHA had four experienced officers to take control of the group. The officers spent much time over the summer organizing for the fall semester, Woods said.

"RHA is going to be really heavily involved in Cultural Awareness Week," Woods added. She is one of the principal figures in the organizing of the event to be held March 6-10.

Tremmel said he is acting as a "lame-duck" president because he will be graduating in the spring.

"I was impressed with the way everyone pulled together (last semester)."

Pikes

members mentioned the recorder and some even asked not to be tape recorded.

However, Andree said the tape recorder was in a briefcase and he saw the national officials press the play button. Andree noted he was not asked if the conversation could be tape recorded.

Corah said the fraternity's constitution states that any interviews of this nature will be tape recorded. He added that if the members were not aware of this it was their own fault.

"There is no way it (the recordings) could be a violation of privacy when it's a known fact that any type of interview will be taped. They should not consider (it an invasion) unless they are ignorant to the rules of the fraternity. Ignorance of the law is no excuse," Corah said.

Although the interviews uncovered what may have been incidents of hazing, this was not one of the reasons cited for dismissal, Corah said.

Lindgren said of the hazing, "That's probably one reason they came down. There was stuff like that (hazing) that went on. Everybody in the house did participate."

The Eastern chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha has been the subject of numerous complaints throughout the past few years, both from neighbors and the university, Lindgren said.

"Our house has been in so much trouble. The neighbors hate us and the school hates us because the neighbors complain," Lindgren said.

Members have also slipped below the national's recommended GPA of 2.0. Corah said that if the GPA is lower than this for two consecutive semesters, it is grounds for expulsion.

In addition, the fraternity has been debt to the national chapter because of delinquent due payments and a new mortgage the chapter took out on its house.

Although this was not one of the reasons cited for dismissal, it will be part of a "re-building" program the fraternity will undergo in the future.

Corah said the national chapter plans to do a lot more than simply keep a closer "watch" on the local chapter. "We're sending people in to roll up their sleeves and work with the fraternity to help them rebuild."

"Our focus is starting over from ground zero. We want the members to build the fraternity. If anybody gets in the way of that, they will be removed."

Aid bonds available

By JEFF SMITH
Staff writer

The Illinois State Scholarship Commission is stressing long-range financial planning to parents and offering 14 financial aid programs to students to help offset rising college costs, said ISSC Executive Assistant Kathy Rooney.

The state offered the sale of college savings bonds Tuesday to parents to help them plan for their child's future in college, Rooney said.

A bond could be purchased from between $1,000 and $3,500, with its value increasing to $5,000 by the bond's maturity date.

Rooney said the ISSC is offering assistance to families considering college savings bonds and other long-range financial options but is not doing the actual planning for them.

"We have suggestions we offer to the parents," she said, "but it's ultimately up to the family to plan for their child's college education."

A second bond sale is scheduled for the fall, Rooney added.

The ISSC first started administering financial aid programs for students in 1957, Rooney said.

The Monetary Award Program, based on financial need, was created in 1985. It is the largest ISSC program, having provided some 99,000 students with grants valued at more than $132 million during the 1986-87 school year. In all, more than $500 million, through more than 250,000 grants, scholarships and loans, were awarded by the programs.

Other ISSC programs include the Merit Recognition Scholarship program, which is the only program that solely recognizes academic achievement, and the Paul Douglas Teacher Scholarship program, which awards financial aid to students in the top 10 percent of their class and are pursuing a teaching education.

Rooney said the ISSC makes presentations and loans various resources to high school guidance counselors throughout the school year to help parents and students realize the financial sources available to them.

"We take a counseling and information standpoint (in regard to financial aid)," she said.

The ISSC's budget for 1988 will be developed in the fall, Rooney said. The ISSC asked for $184.9 million for FY '88, but was presented with only $135.4 million.

Rooney said, "If the tax increase goes into effect, we'll receive more money, but still not the full amount we asked for."

Football playoff nixed at NCAA convention

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—College fans failed to get a football playoff from the NCAA convention Tuesday, but needy players picked up an extra $500.

Division I-A officials, as expected, overwhelmingly reaffirmed their opposition of a football championship for now.

"The time is not right, the place is not right, and the circumstances are just not right," said Tom Butters, Duke athletic director. Butters prepared a playoff study for the College Football Association which helped sink any chance the resolution ever had.

"A time is coming when everything will be right," Butters said, declining specifics. "The resolution is dead, the issue is not."

Division I schools spent much of Tuesday afternoon's session debating a touchy proposal to give more federal entitlement money in athletes from poor backgrounds. Students who qualify are eligible for as much as $2,100 in Pell Grant money. But NCAA schools have voted at previous conventions to limit scholarship athletes to $900 in Pell Grant money each year. That was raised to $1,400 after Tuesday after Vanderbilt athletic director Roy Cramer helped defeat a move to refer the proposal to next year.

"If they qualify for $1,400, let's get the financial aid officer to award that, so that young man and young woman that I look in the face, I don't have to say, 'I'm sorry, we're going to refer.' That means a lot to a person who has nothing in their pocket, I'll tell you. If they're entitled to it, they ought to receive it."

"This will have an affect on the agent problem a little bit," said Gene Corrigan, commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"This, along with education and the other things people are working on. Whether it will have a dramatic affect, I don't know. But none of us wanted to go back to our campuses and say to the kids, 'I'm sorry, but we weren't able to help you again this year. We have to do a study.'"

Baseball meeting today

There will be a meeting at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 13 in the West Bleachers of Lantz Gym for students interested in trying out for the baseball team. According to Coach Tom McDevitt, the meeting is limited to those students who were out for a fall sport or who are enrolling at Eastern for the Spring semester.

Gossett from page 16

American third baseman for the Panthers kicked for the Chicago Blitz of the United States Football League, the Kansas City Chiefs, Cleveland Browns and Houston.

Gossett said that Cleveland's Municipal Stadium is not a favorite among NFL punters.

"Cleveland is not the best place to kick because of the weather, the wind (Municipal Stadium is located near Lake Erie) and the field."

"Money is not everything," Gossett said. "And I think I proved that by not signing with the Raiders. My family is more important."

Jeff Gossett

with 12 goals. Laidlaw also had two assists for the season.

The All-Illinois team, which is made up of players from all of the college soccer teams in Illinois, regardless of division, had Simpson as first team goalkeeper, Kompare as second team back, Laidlaw as second team forward, and Glendinning as third team back.

On the All-Midwest team, Simpson was first team goalie, Kompare was first team back, Glendinning was second team back, and Laidlaw was second team forward.

"It was a nice Christmas surprise," said Kompare, a native of Fruitland, Ontario. "It's a great honor to be chosen and I think that it reflects on the kind of team we had this year."

"I had no personal goals at all going into the season," Kompare said. "So long as the team does well, that's all that matters. The captains (Simpson, Glendinning and junior Greg Muhr) all really held things together when things got tough."

Kompare also said the honor "is a great incentive to do even better next season. There's always room for improvement, and I think that when next season comes along, we're going to be tough."

Laidlaw, Glendinning and Simpson could not be reached for comment on the awards.

Last three champs in slam-dunk meet

DEERFIELD (AP)—Chicago's Michael Jordan said Tuesday he's looking forward to dunking with some friends.

Jordan will defend his title in the Gatorade Slam-Dunk competition during NBA All-Star weekend against former winners Dominique Williams and Spud Webb of the Atlanta Hawks.

"...It's the first time all three will have the opportunity to compete," Jordan said at a news conference in which contestants in the All-Star special events were announced.

The slam-dunk and American Airlines Long Distance Shootout are scheduled Feb. 6 along with the Schick Legends Classic featuring former NBA greats. The 38th annual All-Star Game will be played at Chicago Stadium the next day.

Chicago is hosting All-Star weekend for the first time since 1972.

Wilkins was the 1985 slam-dunk champion and the 5-foot-7 Webb won the title in 1986. Jordan won it last year with 148 points over Jerome Kersey of the Portland Trail Blazers, who had 140.

Kersey will compete this year, along with teammate Clyde Drexler, Ron Harper of the Cleveland Cavaliers, Scottie Pippin of the Bulls, and Otis Smith of the Golden State Warriors.

Larry Bird, meanwhile, will be trying for his third consecutive long distance title against a field of seven challengers. Among them are his Boston Celtics teammate Danny Ainge, 1987 runner-up Detlef Schrempf of the Dallas Mavericks, and 1986 runner-up Craig Hodges of the Milwaukee Bucks.

Other contestants, chosen from among the league's leading 3-point shooters, are Dale Ellis of the Seattle SuperSonics, Mark Price of Cleveland, Byron Scott of the Los Angeles Lakers and Trent Tucker of the New York Knicks.

Soccer forward Garry Laidlaw takes a shot at an opposing goaltender during a game last season. Laidlaw, a sophomore, was one of four soccer Panthers named to the All-Illinois and All-Midwest soccer teams recently.

Four booters named to '87 all-star squads

By BRENT FEENEY
Staff writer

Four members of the soccer Panthers were recently honored with selections to the All-Illinois and All-Midwest teams.

The four, seniors Mark Simpson and John Glendinning and sophomores Garry Laidlaw and David Kompare, were mainstays for the team in its 11-5-3 1987 season, which included an eight-game unbeaten streak.

"It's the most number of players that made the All-Midwest team since I've been here," said Panther Coach Cizo Mosnia. "They're good players and good kids. They really worked hard during the run we had in the second half of the season. We had our backs to the wall and they just responded in a big way."

Laidlaw led Eastern with 27 points on 10 goals and seven assists, while Kompare tallied 23 points (nine goals and five assists).

Glendinning tallied six points with two goals and two assists.

Simpson corralled 86 saves as Eastern's No. 1 goalie this season and maintained a 1.00 goals against average. The 6-0, 170 pound senior also recorded six shutouts in his 18 appearances.

However, Mosnia also felt junior Mark Noffert should have been considered for the team. "Mark really played well after he came back from an (hamstring) injury," Mosnia said. "I'm a bit surprised that he didn't make it, because he had a good year, too."

The junior was second to Laidlaw in points scored with 26 and was Eastern's leading scorer

Eastern set to play NIU for first time since '66

By DAVID LINDQUIST
Staff writer

Eastern's basketball team has not played Northern Illinois since 1966, but the Panthers will host the Huskies Wednesday night at Lantz Gym in the first of two meetings the squads will have in 1988.

Eastern brings a 7-4 season record into the game, which will be the Panthers' final contest before their AMCU conference slate begins Saturday at home against Illinois-Chicago. Northern's season record is 4-8.

Both coaches said they are looking forward to the renewal of the Eastern-Northern series.

"It's appealing from the fans' standpoint," Eastern Coach Rick Samuels said. "The intrastate rivalry is nice for everyone."

"I think it's important to play people within the state," Northern Coach Jim Rosborough said. "We're looking forward to Wednesday's game and then hosting Eastern at the end of the season."

Eastern will conclude their 1988 season on March 7 at Northern.

The Eastern and Northern squads are similar in that they both finished with 9-19 season records last year and return most of their key players.

"It should be a good game," Rosborough said. "Playing at their court is a consideration and at 7-4, Eastern's team is obviously doing some things right."

The Panthers are 6-0 at Lantz Gym this season and are led in scoring by junior guard Jay Taylor, who is averaging 18.5 points per game.

The rest of the Eastern starting lineup Wednesday will likely consist of guard Ron Tate, forwards Tom Hemphill and Mark Fowler, and center Vince Macciocchi, who tallied season highs of 17 points and 10 rebounds during Saturday's 75-68 win over St. Louis University.

Samuels added Panther backup center Mike West sustained a knee injury in Monday's practice. West did not practice Tuesday and will be questionable for Wednesday's game with a jammed knee.

Samuels said Northern features a half-court style offense that utilizes their interior offense.

"Northern has a lot of good, experienced athletes," Samuels said. The Huskies feature returning frontcourt starters John Culbertson and Mike Grabner. Both Culbertson and Grabner are 6-8.

Northern's leading scorer is point guard Rodney Davis, a 6-3 senior who is averaging more than 18 ppg.

"Rodney is a very good player when he puts his mind on what he's doing," Rosborough said.

In regards to the upcoming AMCU season, Samuels said playing against a strong frontcourt team such as Northern will help the Panthers prepare for the conference schedule.

"We just want to continue improving as a team," he said. "We will need to neutralize Northern's rebounding. To compete in the conference, we will need to rebound well."

Wednesday night's tip-off at Lantz will be at 7:30.

Gossett at home in Houston

By BARRY BOTTINO
Sports editor

It's funny how things seem to work out in the end.

And for former Eastern punter Jeff Gossett, that just may be an adage that he can relate to.

After being released by the National Football League's Cleveland Browns on Nov. 18, 1987, the eight-year NFL veteran, who spent four years with the Browns, found himself without a job, despite sustaining a 40-yard average with Cleveland, which is notorious for its horrid winter conditions.

But now, nearly two months later, Gossett is right where he wants to be—at home, in Dallas, with his wife and one-month-old child and kicking in the Astrodome for the nearby Houston Oilers with a brand-new two-year contract.

"I knew if I just trusted in the Lord, he would lead me in the right direction," said Gossett from his Dallas home Tuesday.

"I haven't had the best career—I've traveled around some—but it's been exciting. And one day I'd like to get into sales in the Texas area, so this is where I want to be so I can get my name around," Gossett said.

Gossett also joined the Oilers on their playoff drive, which ended Sunday in Denver with a 34-10 loss.

"That was another reason why I signed with Houston, because they were a playoff contender," Gossett said. "We're an up and coming team," Gossett said of his new teammates.

"We'll be back next year. This team reminds me a lot of Cleveland when we went to the playoffs in '85."

"We're a young team, and when you're young you try too hard sometimes. We made some bad penalties and dropped some balls, but I thought we could play with Denver—at least statistically we did," Gossett said.

Gossett joined the Oilers the week after Thanksgiving as "a financial decision" despite an offer of "$70,000 to $80,000" more from the Los Angeles Raiders.

"The Raiders really wanted to sign me," Gossett said. "(Raiders owner) Al Davis told me he liked my background in baseball and my athletic ability, but he wanted to sign that week (Nov. 21-28). He begged me not to sign, but I wanted to sign with Houston."

Yet Gossett did sign a two-year deal with the Oilers despite taking a "substantial pay cut" from his days in Cleveland.

"Number one, Houston was close to home," Gossett said, "and I wanted to be close so I could get home if I have to. Number two, I've always wanted to kick in a Dome and number three, I could come home on my days off," Gossett said. "I usually come home on Monday night and stay all day Tuesday."

"I'm glad it worked out the way it did," said Gossett, who was elected into the Eastern athletic Hall of Fame during halftime of the Eastern-Illinois State football game on Oct. 17.

In his football career, the former All-American (See GOSSETT, page 12)
